Trading Cards

As a school we have been happy to allow the children to enjoy trading cards at breaks and lunchtimes. The children have all discussed this with their class teachers and been advised that if the cards are causing too many repeated disputes and children are becoming upset then the class teacher will use their judgement about temporarily banning the cards for a cooling off period. Class teachers will then discuss strategies for effective trading as well as reinforcing our whole school trading rules. Each class will hold a meeting to obtain the views of the pupils.

Our school council will then discuss the pupil views of their class and create a whole school set of trading card do's and don'ts, alongside consequences for not following the agreed rules. Hopefully I will be able to share this with you in our next newsletter.

Thank you for your continued support to help us enable the children to develop important cooperation and negotiating skills whilst also having fun.

Oxford Owl – supporting children' reading and spellings for all primary ages.

We have signed each class up for Oxford Owl, if you would like details on how to log on with your child, please pop a note in your child's reading diary or email
